I am a graduate of Chapman University with a B.F.A. in Graphic Design. I chose a Bachelor of Fine Art because it closely mirrors the modern phenomenon of the continuing intersection of art and technology. My strengths include completing tasks quickly and professionally, going above and beyond to solve a problem. I strive to improve ideas by initially exploring targeted demographics to help make a tangible and well thought out deliverable. Supporting this process, I engage in thorough research and objective discussions of product goals with my colleagues. Traveling and studying abroad taught me to be aware of global markets while respecting each other's privacy and cultural differences. Within a team, I strive to quickly solve and carefully observe my contemporaries' thinking, thereby engaging each individual's strengths to deliver intense product experiences on time and within budget.
